Teacher Created Materials' Teaching through Text Sets gets TCA Award

Teacher Created Materials is proud to accept the Learning Magazine's 2015 Teachers' Choice Award for Teaching through Text Sets: Colonial America

Huntington Beach, CA, November 13, 2014 –Teacher Created Materials, an educational publisher located in Huntington Beach, CA, is the proud recipient of the Learning Magazine's 2015 Teachers' Choice Award (TCA) for the Classroom for its Teaching through Text Sets: Colonial America.

Excited about receiving TCA's award, Corinne Burton, President, expressed that it "gives Teacher Created Materials another moment to shine. But the real motivation behind our product development is helping teachers and students everywhere achieve success in the classroom."

Teaching through Text Sets: Colonial America is part of a new product series that provides engaging opportunities for students to build social studies content, analyze craft and structure, and integrate knowledge and ideas. The kit, Colonial America, takes students back to an important part of American history through introductory and anchor texts, in addition to supporting and extension texts. Students are guided through close readings of complex texts to answer text-dependent questions.

Other Teaching through Text Sets U.S. history titles are available from the company currently ranging in time periods from the Colonial America to the Industrial Revolution as well as titles featuring ancient civilizations and world history content. In addition to the texts, all kits in the series include an Interactiv-eBook, a Teacher's Guide, and assessments.
